This model features an additional deco rope which makes the visual relation to the historic instrument. In case of head change the rope is locked against falling down.

Models for these field drums were the instruments of the mercenary troops of the 15th And 16 Century. With the development of her ultra-light drums in the year 2000, Lefima sets standards also at field drums. The sensationally low weight is completed by a voluminous sound and modern tension screw technology. Colours and designs orientate at the checked clothes of the soldiers.

Design features
